DISTRICTS IN DETAIL.

DISTRICT No. 2. Wm. Metcalf, Agent.

Summer term was taught by Miss Maud F. Wixon, of China, who succeeded in making the school interesting and profitable. Oral instruction in physiology was given primary pupils.

Winter term by Miss Bina M. Shorey, who is well known as a teacher, and has taught here before. I find her an exact teacher with whom the scholars worked harmoniously, and the results accomplished were satisfactory.

DISTRICT No. 3: R. J. Whittaker, Agent.

Miss Annie J. Chase had charge of the school for the year. The fact that Miss Chase has taught in this school for several years, seems in itself sufficient commendation. The even grade of scholarship attained speaks in favor of retaining the teacher who does good work for a successive number of terms. The time of closing the winter term being postponed on account of sickness, I did not learn when it was to close in season to make the final examination.

DISTRICT No. 4. Elias Fowler, Agent.

Miss Lizzie A. Farnham taught the summer term. She did her work systematically and thoroughly. Excellent order prevailed and the closing examinations were good.

The winter term was placed under the care of Walter L. Davis. At the beginning of the term I found the school in excellent working order, and the scholars manifesting a lively interest in their studies. Mr. Davis is a live teacher, and applies himself to his work with energy and enthusiasm. School closing unexpectedly on account of sickness, was not visited a second time but reports from the district speak highly of Mr. Davis as a teacher.

DISTRICT No. 5. Otis Meader, Agent.

School year of three terms was taught by Miss Minnie F. Foss, with profit.

DISTRICT No. 6. Frank D. Shorey, Agent.

The school for the year was placed under the instruction of Miss Fannie M. Shorey, who labored earnestly for the advancement of her pupils. Supplementary reading varied the exercises of the "Sixth Reader" class, and the result of oral instruction given primary pupils, in physiology, geography, particularly the drill on the map, and miscellaneous facts, was much practical information and showed that the teacher understood the value of time.

DISTRICT No. 8. L. Libbey, Agent.

Summer term by Miss Belle E. Hunnewell of Solon, an experienced teacher. The appearance of the school at the beginning promised a profitable term, but the results of the examination and the order at the close were not all that could be reasonably desired. Fall and winter terms by Mae E. Foss.

DISTRICT No. 9. W. B. Kidder, Agent.

Miss Eva G. McLaughlin had charge of the summer and fall terms. She is well known as one of our successful teachers. The result of her labors in this school was excellent examinations, giving evidence of thorough, practical work.

Miss Myrtie L. Crummett of China having taught here successfully in the past, was called to teach the winter term. Her work proved her worthy the confidence of her patrons. A most profitable term.

DISTRICT No. 10. T. Sanborn, Agent.

Summer term, Miss Marion L. Shorey, teacher. This was her first term. Though young in years, she came to her school possessing natural and acquired qualifications for her work, and I believe the school accomplished as much as though it had been placed in experienced hands. Miss Shorey will rank with our best teachers.

Winter term was under the instruction of T. O. Knight of Unity, who gave general satisfaction in the discharge of his duties.

DISTRICT No. 11. B. P. Tilton, Agent.

School year by Miss Nellie Harding. This was her first attempt at teaching, but she faithfully discharged her duty toward her little charges. The use made of the wall map showed that such things deserve a place among the furnishings of the school room.

DISTRICT No. 12. P. T. Bessey, Agent.

Summer and fall terms by Miss Carrie E. Whitaker. Though a mild disciplinarian, she possessed the confidence of her pupils, and their united efforts resulted in almost perfect examinations in nearly every class.

Winter term by Miss Annie M. Vose, of Knox, who possesses abundant energy and love for the work. Her methods of instruction are excellent, placing her in the rank of first class teachers.

DISTRICT No. 13. Kelsie Smiley, Agent.

The school for the year was intrusted to the care of Miss Ella F. Shorey. Miss Shorey is a teacher that means business, and prosecuted her work systematically, and with thoroughness as the examination of her pupils gave ample proof. Order first class.

DISTRICT No. 14. Geo. Leonard, Agent.

Summer term by Miss Anna A. Wood. At my first visit I found the teacher striving hard to raise the standard of order, and to interest the scholars in their studies. At my second visit, there was a marked improvement in the general appearance of the school and the examinations were a pleasing success.

Chas. E. Wilson taught the winter term. This was his first school and he did well. He possesses a large stock of patience and seemed persevering in behalf of his pupils. Experience promises to develop an excellent teacher.

GENERAL REMARKS.

Though sickness during January, could not fail to affect the average attendance and the interest somewhat in schools then in session, yet on the whole the schools for the year have prospered. Agents seem to realize the responsibility resting on them as school officials, and the result has been, in most cases, the employment of teachers adapted to the requirements of the several schools. There has been an increase in the number of teachers retained in the same school for the year, and I notice better grading and steadier advancement in consequence. Some of the school houses have received repairs which have rendered them more comfortable. Others demand at-tion. School house in Dist. No. 8 needs to be repaired quite extensively. Black boards in some schools are not yet all, or what they should be. Chairs, also, are often but an apology for the article. Wall maps are scarce. Comfortable school houses, furnished school rooms are necessary if you would expect their best work from the teacher and pupils. I think a Free High school would be a benefit to the town, not only in fitting the scholars for the social and business relations of life, but also for its direct influence upon the common schools in a better preparation of the young teachers for their work, and in furnishing an incentive to better scholarship in the schools. I have had the pleasure of meeting some of the parentt and citizens at a number of my visits in different schools and feln that their presence added interest and encouragement. Only when parents make it their duty and pleasure to become personally acquainted with the teacher, and methods of instruction, will visit the schools and actively interest themselves in their improvement, can we hope to obtain wished for results.

An estimation of $300 to be appropriated for text books under the new law, is made up of two factors. No of book in use, as nearly as may be ascertained and the average price at which publishers will furnish them, if continued in use, as per list received from State Supt. Should the town choose to furnish such appliances as paper, pencils, slates, copy book etc. The above must be increased about 25 per cent. If scholars use the books owned by them until different ones are required, which seems to me the best plan, the expense at first would be much less.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

MAE E. FOSSE, Supervisor.
